Dear Members of the Energy Planning Board:

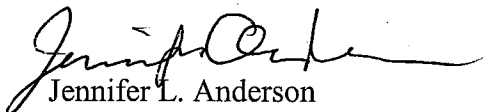

As an engaged citizen of New York state, I am writing to express my concern about the need for a new, improved energy policy in the state. In particular, I would like to see much more attention devoted to promoting energy conservation and developing alternative renewable energy sources.

In a time of deep fiscal trauma, this is something that we all would benefit from both short-term and long-term – by saving precious resources, investing in green-related jobs, and developing renewable energies in the hope of lessening our dependence on foreign oil. More important, I would like to see increased awareness of climate change as a problem of greatest consequence that must be addressed on the local, state, federal, and international level.

You have the chance to play a leadership role in New York and in the nation as a whole.

Please let me know what the Energy Board proposes to accomplish in these areas.

Respectfully,

Jennifer L. Anderson
